Complete Sub Lord Table

Free calculator: kpastrologypro.com/tools/kp-horary-calculator

In KP horary (prashna) astrology, the querent selects a number between 1 and 249 while concentrating on the question. Each number maps to one unique division of the zodiac, fixing the horary Ascendant's sign, star lord and sub lord. This table lists all 249 divisions in order, with the exact From/To span of each (degrees within the sign). It is generated from the same sub lord math that powers our readings.

How to Use This Table for Prashna

Ask the querent to pick one number from 1 to 249 while holding the question firmly in mind. The chosen number is not random noise — in KP it is the question's signature. Look the number up in this table to fix the horary Ascendant. For example, number 78 places the Ascendant in Cancer between 21°33'20" and 22°13'20", in Ashlesha nakshatra: star lord Mercury, sub lord Sun. Erect the chart for the moment of judgment at the astrologer's place, with that division as the Ascendant.

Judgment rests on the sub lord. First test the Moon: it must signify the matter asked about, confirming the question is genuine. Then examine the sub lord of the cusp ruling the question — the 7th cusp for a rival or partner, the 10th for career, the 11th for gains and fulfilment of desire. If that cuspal sub lord is a significator of the houses favourable to the matter, the answer is yes; if it signifies the negating houses, the answer is no. The strength of the promise is read from the sub lord's star lord level.

For timing, list the significators of the favourable houses and filter them through the ruling planets of the judgment moment — day lord, Ascendant sign and star lords, Moon sign and star lords. The event matures in the joint dasha-bhukti-antara period of the common planets, confirmed by transit. Keep this table at hand: the From/To spans let you verify any horary Ascendant, and the star lord / sub lord columns let you read a number's promise at a glance before the full chart is cast.
